Foreword

Baldwin offers us the opportunity to open many doorways. By working hand in hand with our teachers, the threshold to wisdom and experience is crossed. The doors to a more enriched social life are open to those of us who are interested enough to take part in some of Baldwin's many activities. By passing through the gym door, we may receive a well-rounded physical education, either as a participant or as a spectator.

These are only a few of the doorways that can be opened by the aspiring student. When joined together, they make Baldwin a gateway to our coming life. We, as Seniors, are now ready to open these portals and face the future.

Alma Mater

Baldwin High, Our Alma Mater,
We'll be true to you

In our work and in our travels
All the long years through.

Joy we've seen and sadness too
But this, the bond made strong.

Through the years that are before us
We'll remember you.

MISS ELIZABETH B. KIRKLAND

Dedication

Miss Kirkland, without your time, effort, and guidance, it would have been impossible for us to attempt to publish a yearbook such as this. You provided the wise judgment needed to temper our sometimes foolish and impractical ideas; you offered the encouragement we needed to help us meet our deadlines; and you patiently imparted to us the wisdom you have gained through experience when a decision had to be made. It is in appreciation of all your assistance, that we, the Class of 1956, proudly dedicate our BALTHI to you . . .

The task of keeping the school in running order fell to these men. WOMEN CUSTODIANS

In addition to the heavy work which was done by the men, there were many small duties that remained. These three women, who worked from 3:00 to 6:00 every school day, performed such tasks as sweeping and dusting the class rooms, washing the windows, and polishing the fixtures. During all of the vacations, these women took care of odd jobs which did not require daily attention.

MAINTENANCE MEN

In a school district which has become as large as ours, the job of moving equipment from building to building is quite a problem. John Lash, who is in charge of the distribution of supplies, is not in the picture.

Under the able guidance of our sponsors, Miss Smith and Mr. Jesko, our class has completed a successful year. As seniors our lives were hectic, but we have found time to contribute to the activities, athletics, and general well-being of Baldwin High School. The Christmas dance, the class party, the class play, and the prom, which are the main social events of the year, were enjoyed by all. We, the Seniors, are sorry to leave Baldwin High School, but we know that the future is ours to shape, and that we will try to do it well.

In Memoriam

NORMAN R. GEISELHART

The second year our class was at Baldwin, our hearts were saddened with the loss of one of our classmates, Norman R. Geiselhart. Norman attended Lafferty School for his first six years of learning, and in seventh grade he came to Baldwin. He was in school for only three days in eighth grade when he was burned near his home on September 7, 1951 and died on September tenth. He enjoyed baseball, football, and hunting, and had hoped to make our football team. We only wish that more of us had the opportunity to know him better.

Under the direction of Mrs. Shea the officers and students settled down to a year of fun and hard work. The arrival of class rings early in the fall was an important event for all juniors. The class play, "Time Out For Ginger," was a huge success. To round out a perfect year of activities, their class party was held in March. The highlight of the year came on class day when they received the key; and they realized that not too far in the future, the responsibility of seniors would be theirs.

Mr. Shalley gave the tenth grade the opportunity of electing their class officers and choosing their motto, flower, and colors. This brought them together into a tighter unit. Given a chance to participate more in school activities, the sophomores contributed quite a lot to the school in all respects. We are sure biology class was an experience all sophomores look back upon with mixed emotions. The selection of class rings was a very important event for most sophomores and at last they felt that they were a real part of Baldwin High School.

Learning, fun and

Much more than just book larnin' takes place in B. H. S. during a school year. Betty helps Mr. Burkhart in 125 and she also spends a lot of time painting decorations for dances, like our skaters at the Christmas dance. Talent of all sorts, including salesmanship, is needed for our co-curricular activities. Bob gives Joe and Sandy their Purbalite supplies to sell. The Leaders may not have to sell things, but they do work hard. Carol and Ruth Ann try to take roll in a gym class. Visual aids come in handy and help break the monotony—Mr. Magness uses them quite frequently in his classes as Sally and Eileen discovered! The arrival of class rings adds some excitement to the already hectic days. Judy, Judy, and Sandy admire each other's rings. Through all this hustle-bustle, thoughts of our future pop in—Mike is having a conference with Mr. Zingle. Learning by doing sometimes works better than "learning by words" as demonstrated in biology class. Mrs. Gibban uses "George" to show Marlynne and Tom the parts of the body.

How could we survive without supplies? Bill Kane is giving Andy and Jim those necessities to carry back to 219. Luke takes a load of ever-dirty basketball uniforms up to Miss Blazek who has a hopeless job cleaning them. Anything for dear old Baldwin! But over our loyalty to Baldwin there is a loyalty to the stars and stripes, shown every morning in our pledge of allegiance. Now, from seriousness to fun—teachers do have fun—for instance, during coffee break on workshop day. Lessons can be fun, too, especially when there are little gadgets to be used. Sandy and Jan get a indoor driving lesson.

We realized that

Files, files, and more files,—your course, your grades, your plans—Miss Pensom has to keep all of these. She's not the only one that must keep files. Miss Byrne keeps records, too. She has the task of recording all health and sports examinations. The two Jacks are weighing in, as part of their examination for football. To keep us in good health, so we will be sharp for studying is part of Miss Byrnes' job. Kathy not only has to be in good health to study but she has to have all the comforts of home!! A pair of shoes just seems to cramp her style!!!

there was more to education than books,

These four cute smiling lassies make up our Barber Shop Quartet. Although they may differ slightly from the original, they're every bit as good! Nancy, Ellie, Judy and June spent long hours after school learning how to harmonize. More work always went into our activities than into our books. Sally, Ruth, Cleo and Pat came to this conclusion after the twentieth night of staying after school to load and unload those coke trailers. No one could figure out why singing, lugging cases of coke and cleaning band uniforms floored us so! Ted and Neal understood only too well. Being a band manager was no easy job. In fact, our activities sometimes overwhelmed us so that we took a day off. Then we had to bother our complicated little minds with a pink excuse. It doesn't appear to be too troublesome a task for Rich Martire. Maybe he enjoys having Mrs. Jenkins autograph his!!

As we passed thru Baldwin's doorways.

Almost every Tuesday and Friday night in January, there was a lot of violent activity going on in our gym. Everyone who entered the door was cheerfully greeted by Al and Ed, as are Carol and Janet. Our homework forgotten, troubles behind, everyone was out to spur the team on to victory. Round about the end of the nine weeks, it dawned on us that maybe that forgotten homework wasn't such a good idea after all. We realized that perhaps there shouldn't be more to education than books. We were almost positive what our grades would be, but they surprised us anyhow!—eh, Jack?

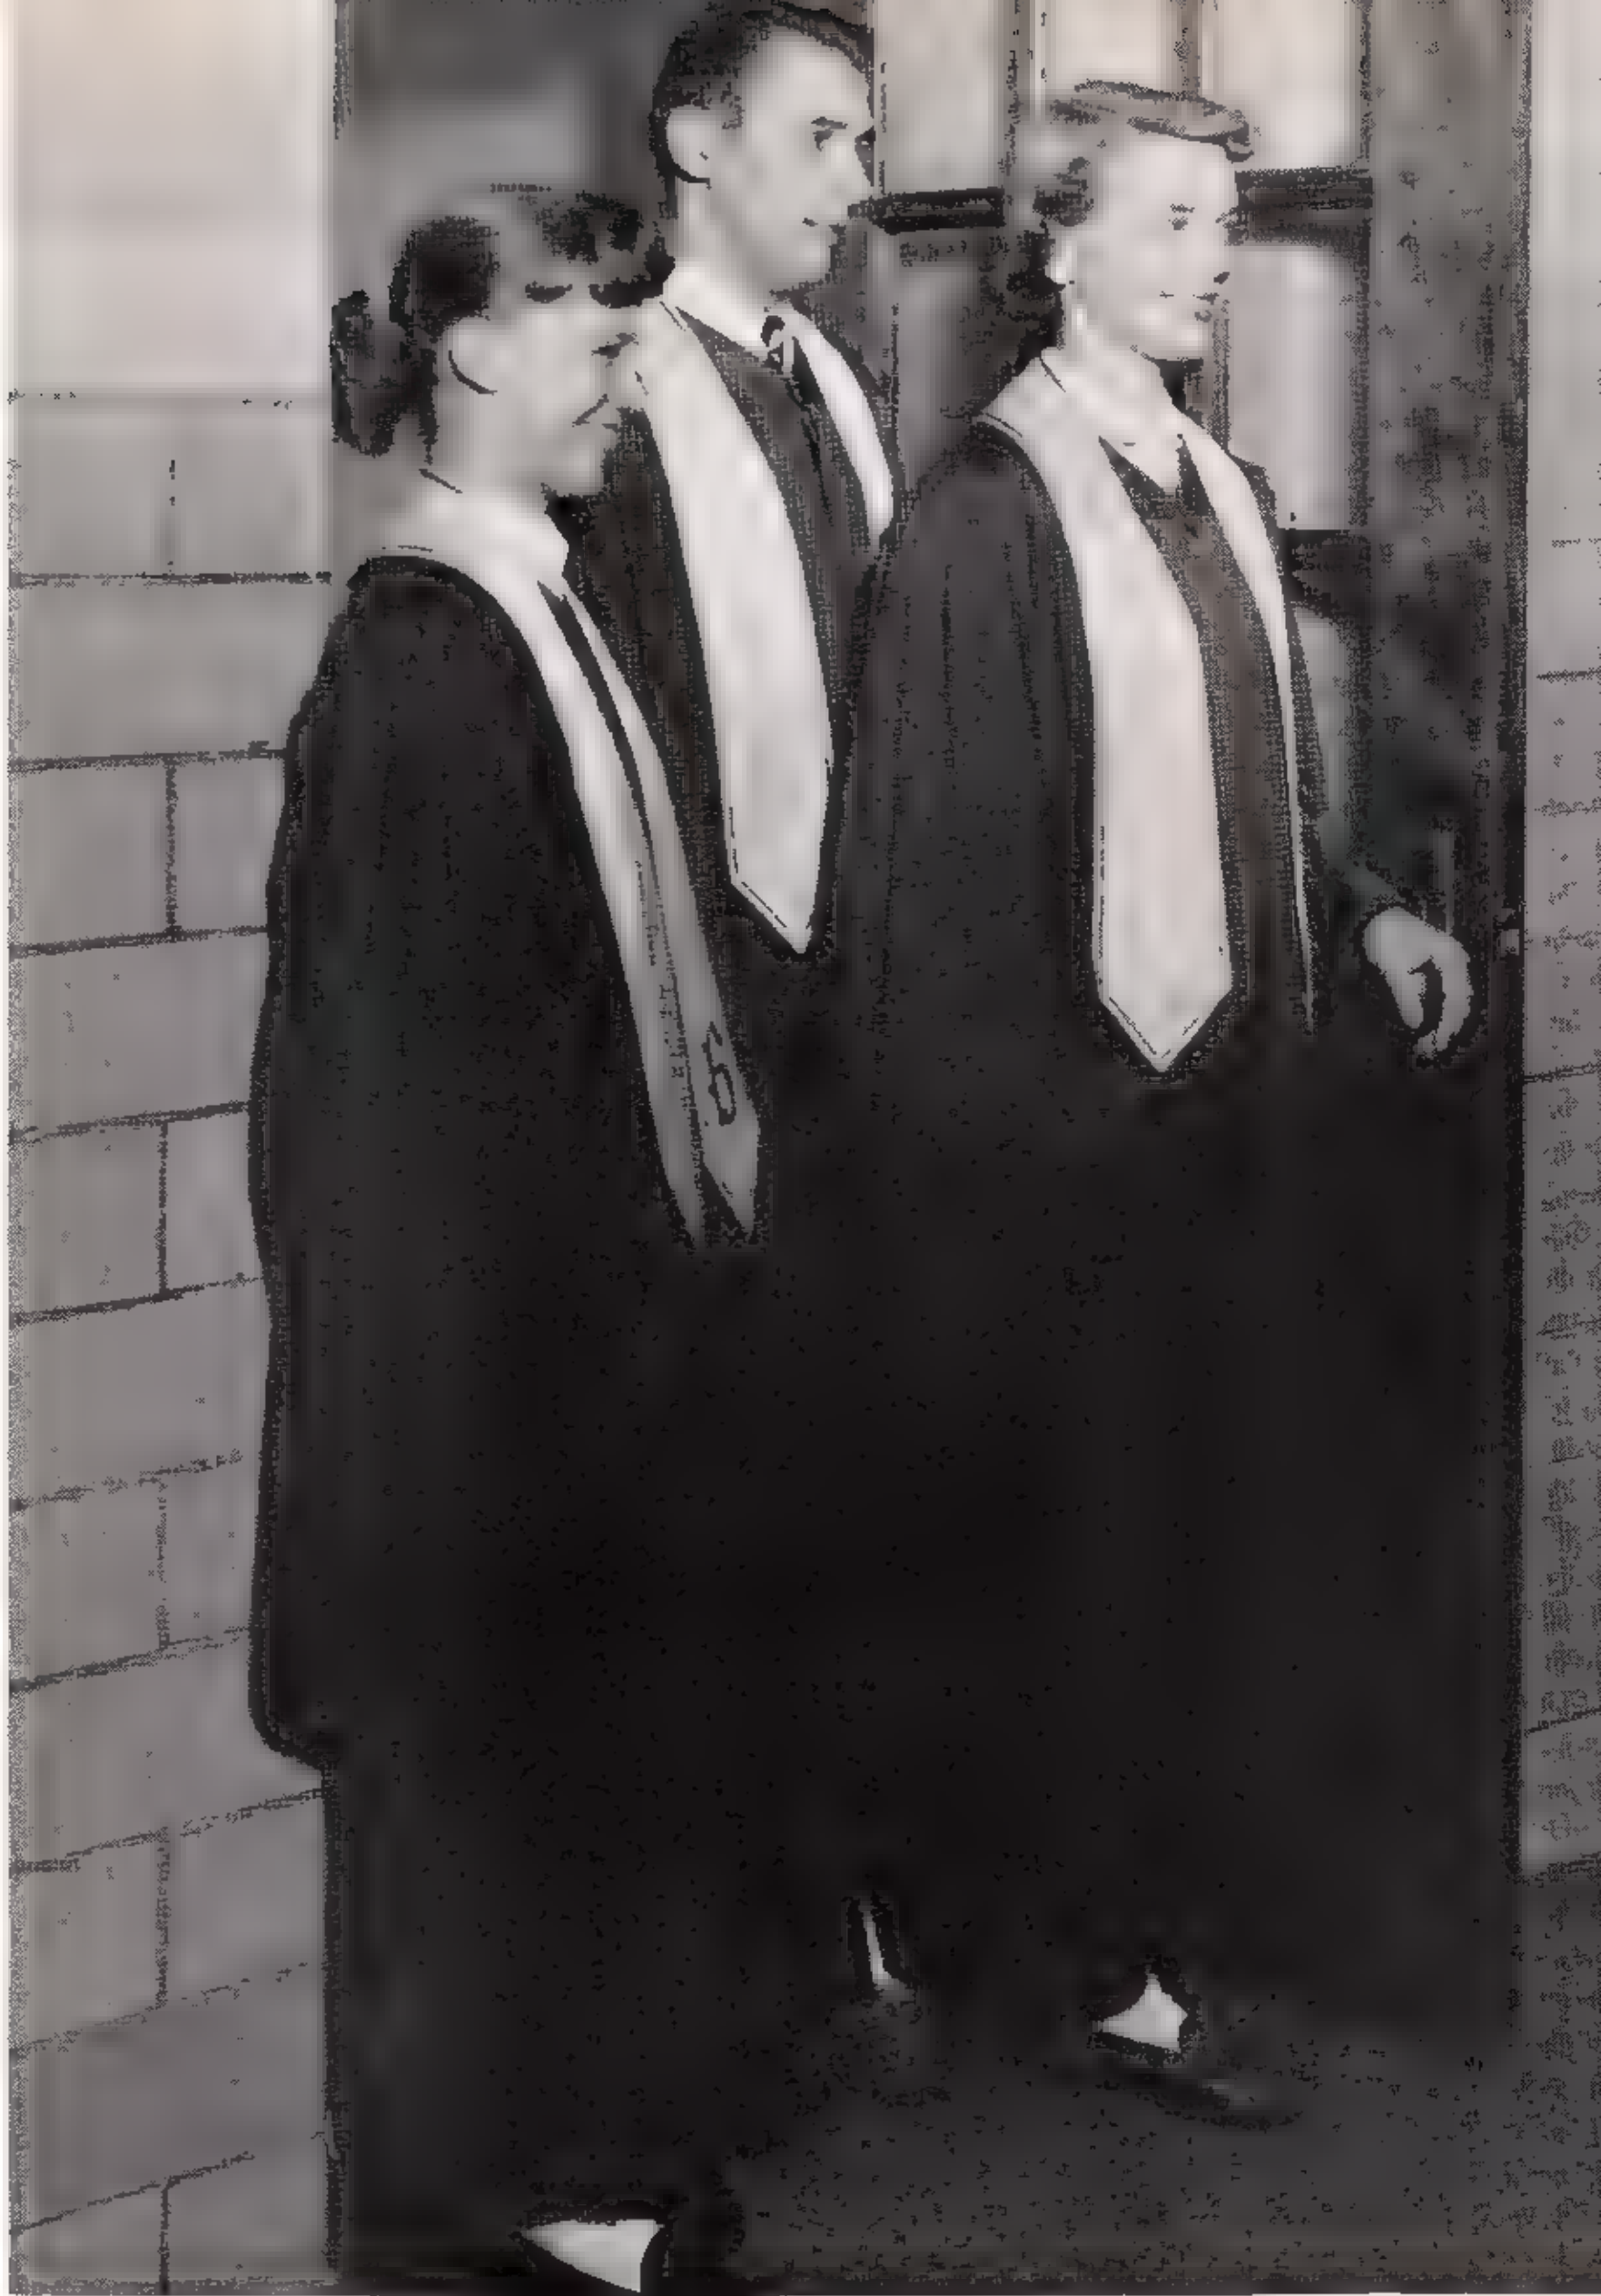

For that endless list of activities we were always participating in, much equipment was needed. Everything from a pencil to a trombone case was brought to school every morning and dragged home every night. This presented a problem—what to do with the stuff during the 8 hours! There's no place to store it. Well, where did it all go? That little convenient cubby hole—my locker, of course!!! Mr. Frantz, in checking his homeroom's lockers, discovered a few neat (?) ones like this.

The Balthi

The Balthi, the high school annual, was published by the Senior Class for the purpose of recording important events of the school year. Under the able direction of Miss Elizabeth Kirkland, the editors, Kathleen Conwell and Betty Ellen Thompson, worked many long hours to make the yearbook one of the finest. Several new features were added to this year's Balthi. For the first time color was used throughout the inside of the book. The cover was highlighted by a design of the school. Informal photographs of school life were added to the senior section. Also included were the activities and sports sections, giving a complete record of the clubs and athletic events. The business staff worked behind the scenes to raise the funds for publication of the 1956 Balthi.

The Purbalite

The Purbalite, Baldwin's news publication, had one of its best years in '55-'56. Under the leadership of editor-in chief, Marianne Cunningham, it published six regular issues, highlighted by the special red and green Christmas copy, Cupid's own Valentine issue and also a spectacular pictorial edition.

The staff, which consisted of nearly thirty-five reporters, was divided into various sections. The news staff was responsible for gathering information about events during our school year. Interesting features were written by the feature staff, and a special group composed the sports section.

On the social scene, the Purbalite held one of the "goofiest" dances of the year, The Goof Ball, which proved to be a great success. We are indebted to Mr. Greiner and the entire Purbalite staff for a fine publication.

Highlander Choir

This year there were three groups composing Baldwin's Choral Department: The Highlander Choir, Boys' Glee Club and Girls' Glee Club. As a supplement, there were also four ensembles. All of these groups sang in the Christmas program and in the annual Spring Concert.

An enthusiastic group of eighty-three senior high students sang in the Highlander Choir. Tryouts were held the previous spring for anyone in the ninth, tenth and eleventh grade who were interested in singing with this organization the following year. Early in the year they elected officers who were, President, Dave Clum; Vice President, Dave Hoover; Secretary-Treasurer, Sandy Slater.

The choir chose a theme song this year. It consisted of a medley of two songs, each of Scottish origin. Mr. Shalley did some research on Scottish folk music and discovered that many Scottish songs were either war songs or love songs. From a variety of numbers the choir chose an old war song, "Wi' a Hundred Pipers," and the very beautiful love song, "Annie Laurie."

Boys' Glee Club

The Highlander Choir gave an excellent demonstration of their ability on their first program, which was Open House. At Christmas, with the aid of Mr. Charles Greiner, of the drama department, the Highlander Choir and the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs presented an original program. A playlet written by Nancy Houlihan, a senior, preceded the religious portion of the program. By means of tableaux, the nativity scene was portrayed, while the chorus sang appropriate selections. The Highlander Choir also sang with their usual enthusiasm in the Thanksgiving and Easter Assembly programs. In most of their programs they wore the beautiful purple robes and white stoles. New robes were purchased to accommodate the new members added to this year's choir. In the Spring Concert the girls wore evening gowns. The concert consisted of beautiful sacred music, popular standards that are old favorites, rocking spirituals, and novelties.

In January the Highlander Choir sang for the South Suburban Women's Club. The women were so impressed by the performance that they wanted to make some sort of reciprocal gesture. The club members decided that the proceeds from their spring dance would be given to the support of the vocal music department of Baldwin High School.

Mr. Shalley was very pleased that seventy boys had the desire to sing in the Boys'

The Girls'

Glee Club. They rehearsed in groups on different periods throughout the week. Combined rehearsals were held before a performance. They sang at Christmas and in the Spring Concert. In such performances they wore dark suits and white shirts. Their theme song, chosen two years ago, was the beautiful

Fred Waring arrangement of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." There were no try-outs for the Boys' Glee Club and all boys with the desire to sing were encouraged to join. In performances they gave a special flavor to the music that only male voices could give.

The Girls' Glee Club this year was the largest in the history of the group. It numbered one hundred and forty. They rehearsed in sections, the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth periods. All girls in the senior high were eligible for membership. The Glee Club's rendition of many beautiful songs, old favorites and new, sacred and secular, helped to make various programs throughout the year a success. For the Christmas program they wore unusual white robes made of sheets and in the annual Spring concert they wore formal dresses.

This year only those members of the Highlander Choir were eligible to join the various ensembles. Many students with fine voices appeared for tryouts and it was indeed a difficult task for Mr. Shalley to select the vocalists. Resulting from the tryouts, the following groups were selected: Girls' Ensemble, Girls' Quartet, Boys' Double Quartet, and Swing Choir. The students rehearsed on school time and held after school rehearsals when the time of a performance drew near. These special groups received invitations to sing for outside organizations such as church groups, Women's Clubs' and other organizations. This gave the singers valuable experience in performing before an audience.

Much of the success this year could not have been attained without the girls who worked behind the scenes and gave up much of their time to accompany the choral groups. The accompanists for the Highlander Choir, Ellen Hile, Judy Baker, and Joan Hurd, worked especially hard on the eight part music which was difficult. All of the girls spent many hours at home practicing.

This has been Mr. Shalley's third year at Baldwin. His aim is to make our choral department one of the best. He has been making good progress with all of the groups.

Highlander Band

Shake, rattle, and roll . . . shake, rattle, and roll . . . This was one of the most popular numbers heard at the football games this year.

Vacation ended two weeks early for all members of the marching band. The successful maneuvers performed at halftime during the football season were due to the long hours and hard work spent in the summer training sessions by the band members.

Two annual concerts were presented by the band. The first of these was the Mid-year concert where both popular and jazz music were played. Additional attractions featured the Swing Choir, a novelty number, and dancing. The concert was a very big success.

At the Spring concert semi-classical music was well presented. Many hours of rehearsal went into the preparation of this fine program. This concert was received with equal interest by the audience.

Adding to the attraction of our Band were four very pretty majorettes. They were Betty Ann Marston, Deanna Verner, Betty Ellen Thompson, seniors, and Andrea Ball, a sophomore. These girls marched during football season and performed at the Mid-year concert.

The eight girls who represented our school as the Highlanders were known to every Baldwinite. These girls were chosen by Mr. McIlroy and were captained by Mary Lou Jones. George Berk accompanied them on the bagpipe as they danced to the lively Highland Fling.

The Student Senate is an organized body of elected representatives whose main duty is to express the desires of the student body. They were under the sponsorship of Mr. Stanley Zingle. This year a special committee was selected to prepare and revise our annual "Highlander" handbook. During the basketball season, other committees were chosen to sell basketball tickets, refreshments, and take charge of the dances after the Friday night home games. On Senior Class Day, the Student Senate presented activity awards to those who had earned the required number of points in activities. Officers of the Senate this year were: President, Henry Tomko; Vice President, Rich Ricci; Treasurer, Barbara McGibbeny; Secretary, Gloria Cofsky; Assistant Secretary, Sandy Slater.

Junior Class Play

On November seventeenth and eighteenth, the junior class presented a rollicking comedy entitled "Time Out For Ginger", by Ronald Alexander. The play was quite a success due to the direction of Mr. C. F. Greiner and student directors, Dain King and Brenda Fischer. The play concerns a girl named Ginger (Joyce Linnert), the daughter of Agnes Carol (Betty Linder), and Howard Carol (Bob Tagliaferro). Ginger decides she wants to join the high school football team, and this raises quite a bit of controversy. Ginger's boyfriend, Tommy Green (Jim Hicks), a rather studious boy, is completely against the idea. The high school principal, Mr. Wilson (Don Marks), even goes as far as to see Mr. and Mrs. Carol about the idea of their daughter joining the team. Mr. Carol, however, feels that his daughter should be able to do as she wishes. The maid, Lizzie (Mary Lou Kording), is all for Ginger joining the football squad. In fact, she goes to watch Ginger practice every chance she has. Ginger's two sisters, Joan (Norma Kraus) and Jeannie (Lois Debold), opposed the idea because Ginger was fighting with two sophomores in the school hall. Eddie Davis (Jim Bronder), an athlete and Joan's boyfriend, is a little jealous because Ginger somehow manages to beat him in certain field events. Poor Mr. Carol is faced with the possibility of losing his job at the bank. Many of his friends come into the bank and start whipping up football cheers. This only showed Mr. Hoffman (Chuck Lucas), the bank's president and Mr. Carol's boss, that Mr. Carol had done very well in making a spectacle of himself. When Mr. Carol returned home after the big game, he was very excited at having seen his daughter make a touchdown. Ginger, however, thought that the team had let her win. This hurt her pride and she decided that being a girl might be more important than playing football after all.

Senior Class Play

On March 15th and 16th, the senior class presented a humorous play entitled "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring. The production was directed by Mr. Charles F. Greiner, who was assisted by student directors, Pat Pierini and Pat Gensler.

The play told of two old maids, Martha Brewster (Betty Welsh) and Abbey Brewster (Maureen Roddam), who nonchalantly poison lonely men to relieve them of their troubles. Their eccentric nephew, Teddy (Glenn Tryan), who believes he is Theodore Roosevelt, buries the bodies in the cellar, thinking they are yellow fever victims in Panama. The other nephew, Mortimer (George Chorba), a play critic, uncovers one of these victims in the window seat. After discovering that his aunts are involved, he works hard to prevent others, especially his fiancée, Elaine (Jane Taylor), from making the same discovery. Two shady characters, Jonathan (Bill Bonnar) and Dr. Einstein (Cheddie Mertz), visit the Brewster home. They bring along a very dead companion, Mr. Spenalza (Tom Lawrence), whom they had intended to bury in the cellar grave meant for Abbey and Martha's twelfth victim. Jonathan and Dr. Einstein are eventually exposed. Plans are made to send Abbey, Martha and Teddy to a sanitarium, but . . .

The play was successfully staged due to the hard work of the cast and those behind the scenes.

The Leaders Club is an organization open only to senior girls. This club is composed of twenty-six girls who have shown good sportsmanship and have acquired an A average in gym. Under the guidance of Miss Watt, they tried to promote good sportsmanship on the gym floor. The officers were: President, Ruth Grossman; Vice President, Betty Thompson; Secretary, Gloria Cofsky; Treasurer, Deanna Verner.

Varsity Lettermen

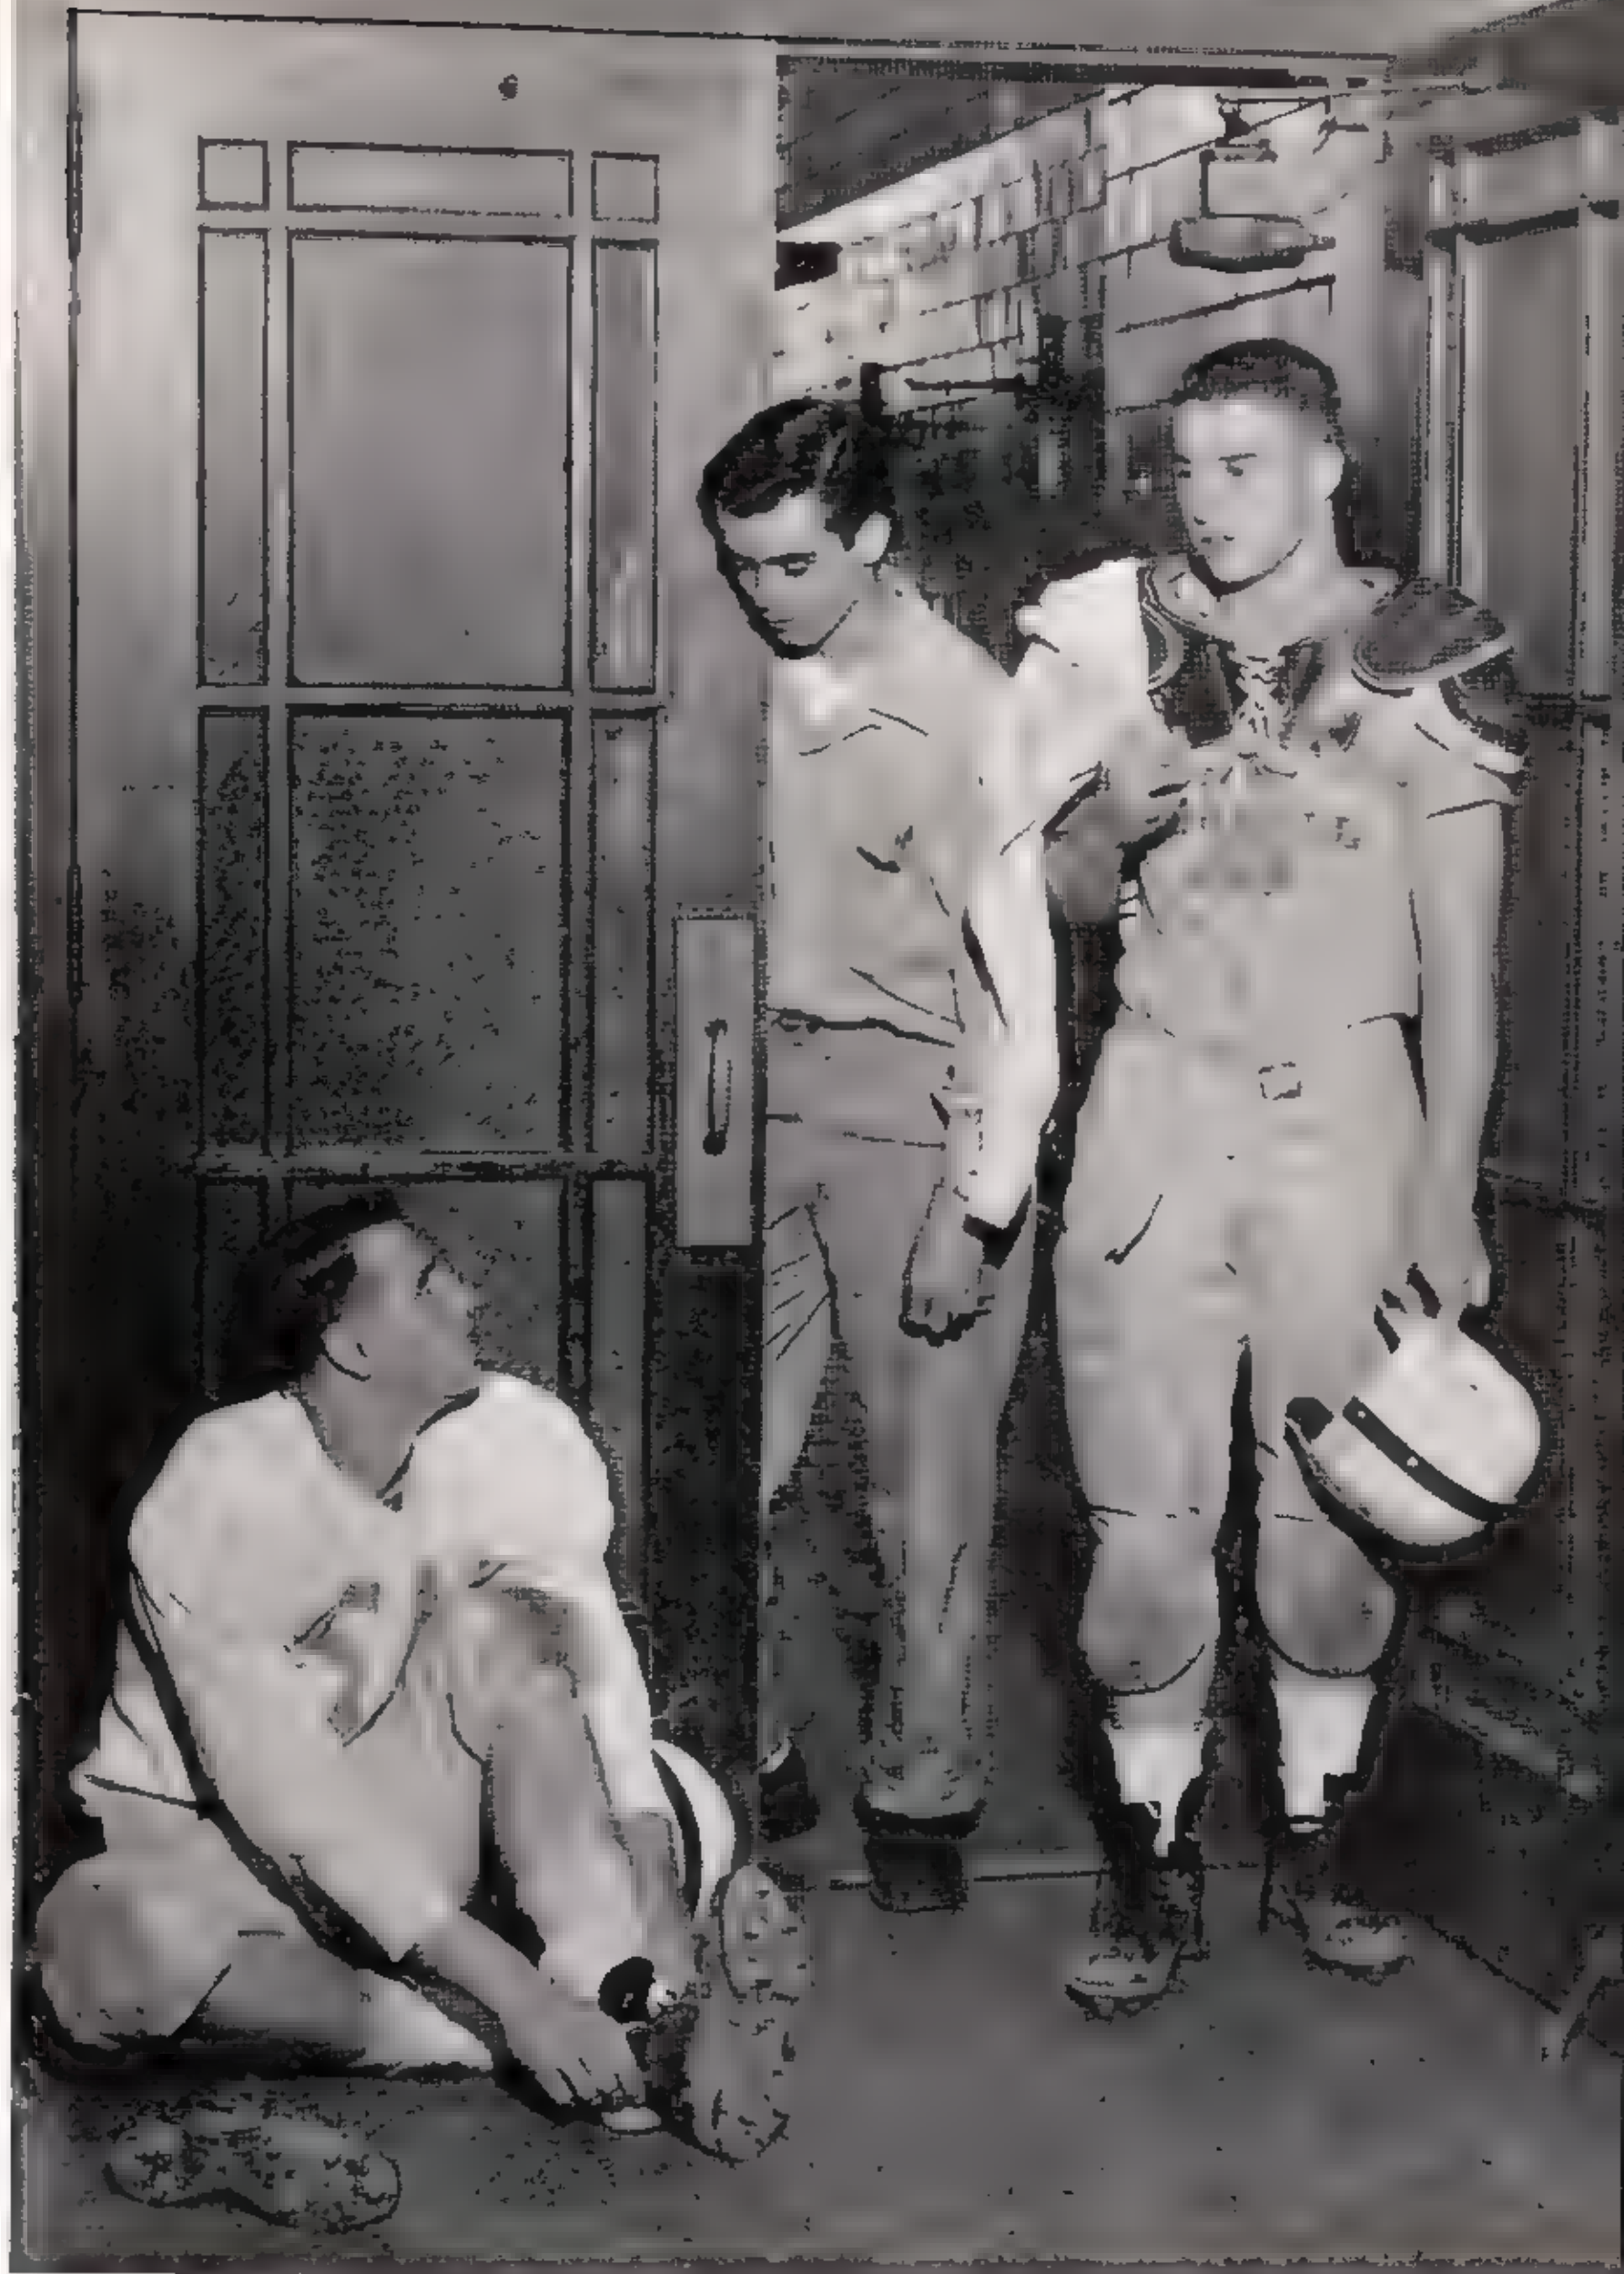

All athletes of Baldwin, who have earned a letter in a sport, are eligible for membership in the Varsity Lettermen. Mr. Al Crevar, the boys' physical education instructor, was the sponsor of the club. The game they played against the faculty was the highlight of their activities. The Lettermen promoted this project to raise funds to buy jackets for the senior members.

Football

The 1955 football season opened a new door to the Purple and White. The Highlanders found themselves moved up a notch to the top flight AA competition, the pinnacle of football competition in the W.P.I.A.L.

Although this year's record was an unimpressive 4-5, the boys gained valuable experience for the future. This was the first losing season experienced by head coach Al Crevar. Mr. Crevar was ably assisted by veteran aides James Gillooly, Elias Karpa, Anthony Mazzocco, and George Banky.

During the course of the football season many odd and difficult tasks must be done. The duty of handling these jobs falls to the managers, who sort and take all the equipment and are responsible for its up-keep. This year's managerial staff was headed by Paul Winslow.

Cheerleaders

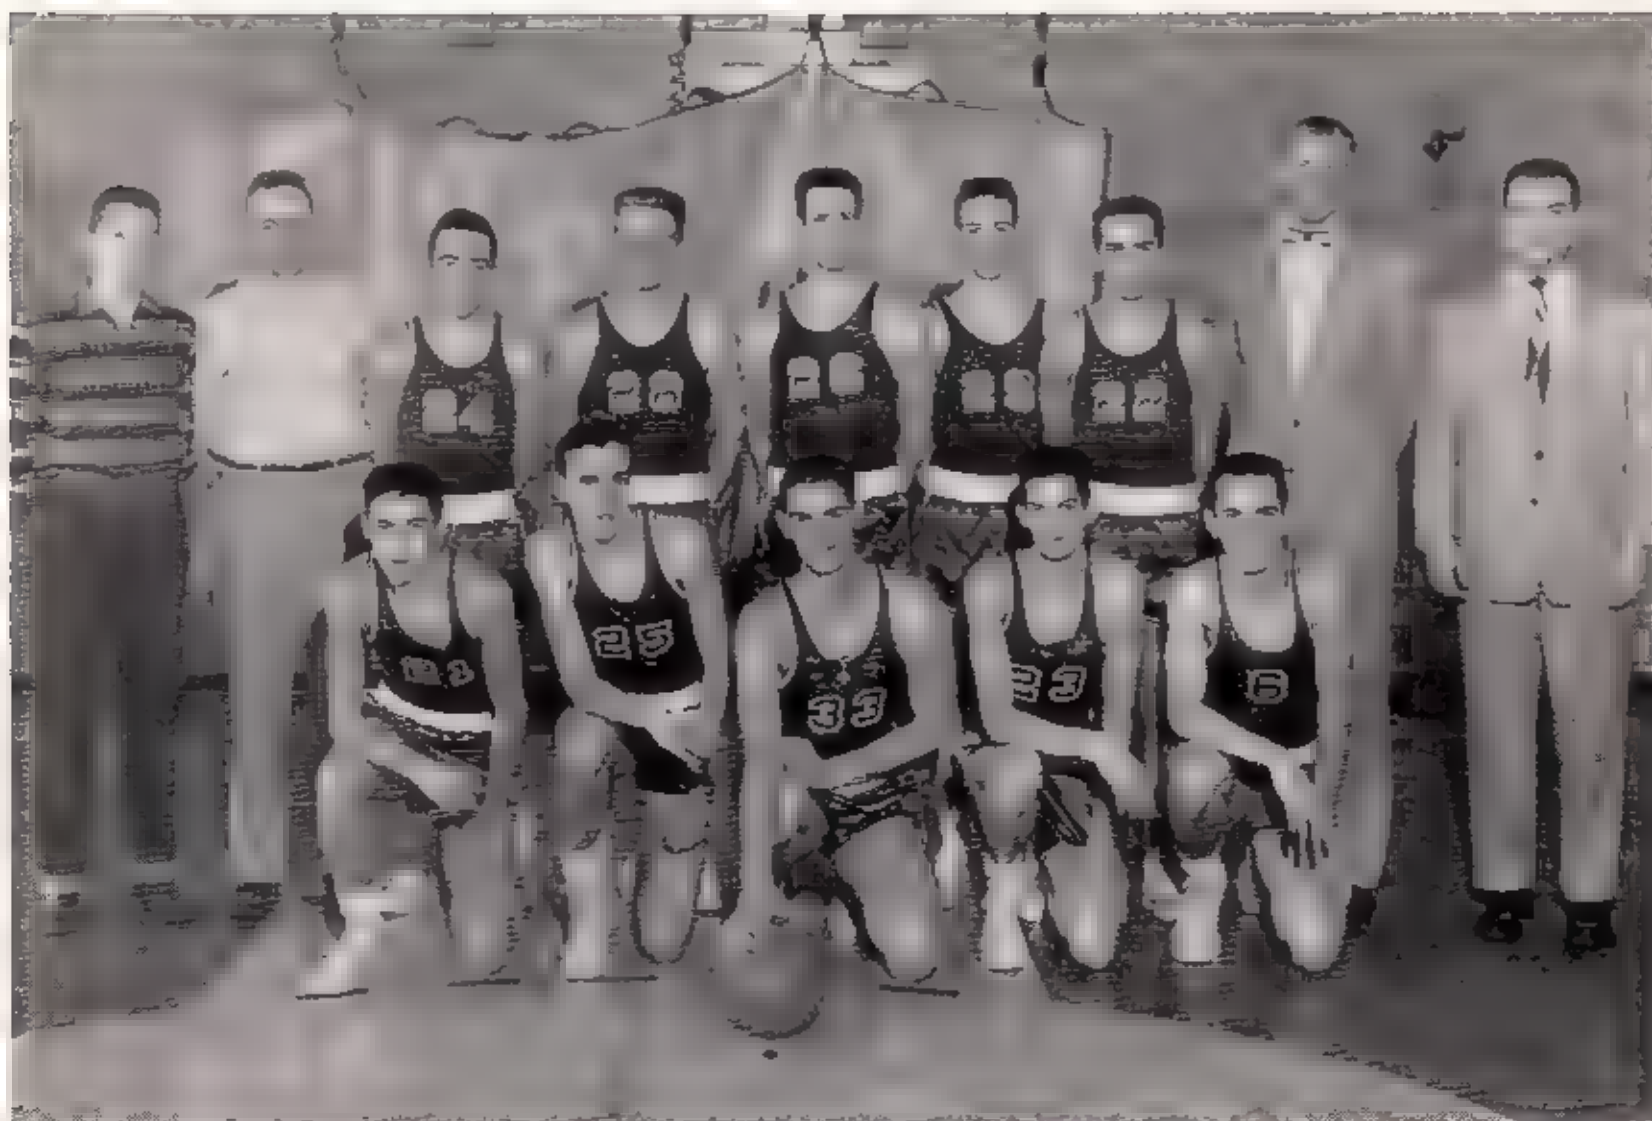

To our cheerleaders go most of the credit for the eagerness and interest in the sports at Baldwin. Flashes of purple and white were on hand to lift our spirits, no matter how muddy the field or how cold the weather. During the winter, the ten peppy gals cheered our basketball team on to victory.

This year the ten cheerleaders were captained by Ann Jones, who was assisted by Pat Shannon. Five of the cheerleaders graduated this year, but four juniors and a sophomore will carry on the good work next year.

Friday nights at the Stadium during football season! Latecomers hurry to get through the turnstile before the kick-off. The opposing squads and their coaches await tensely the fateful plunk on leather, and the crowd is still, as a hush descends over the stadium. The game starts and from various posts of duty the faculty watches its progress. Cries of "Peanuts, Popcorn" rise above the shouts of the cheerleaders. At half time the crowd surges around the refreshment stand or watches the maneuvers of the dancing band. The diversion is brief as once again all eyes focus on our fighting Highlanders. The game over, the once bright field is but a dark plot of earth, and the stands a deserted concrete pavilion.

Basketball

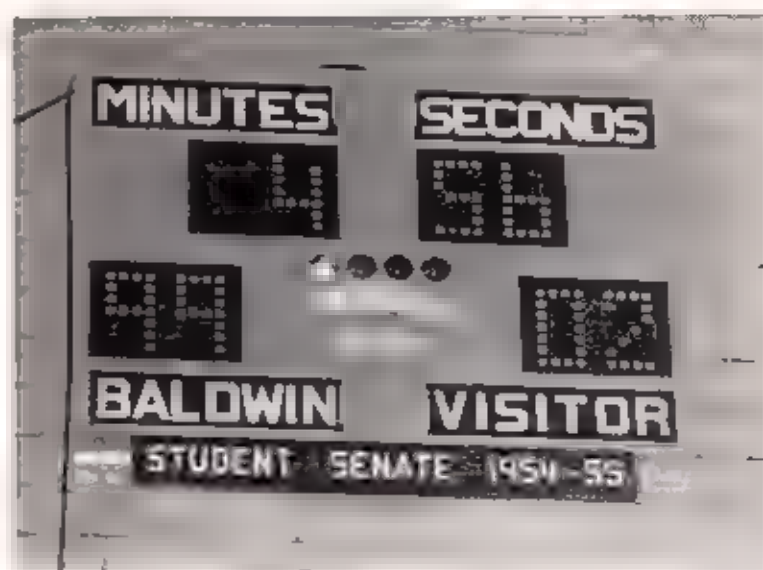

This year the "Highlander Hoopsters" again turned in a respectable impressive season, true to Baldwin tradition. The purple and white clad floormen were one of the top teams in their section.

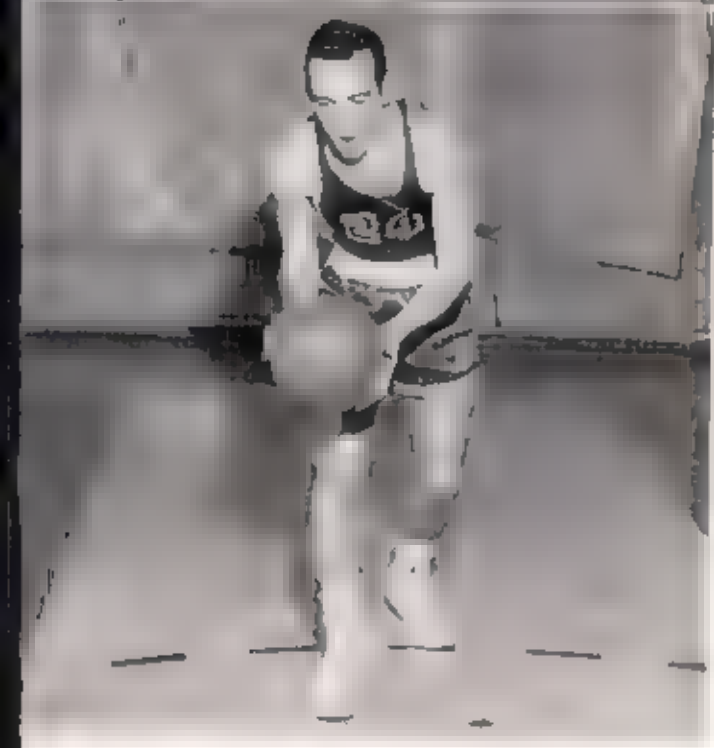

George Banky, a graduate of St. Francis College and a well-known cageman himself, took over the coaching chores and led his bucketeers to another Triadic title and runner-up spot in Section 13.

The Baldwinites compiled a 7-3 record in league tilts, only dropping two contests to Carnegie and one to Crafton.

The Baldwin five floored a young team that included five sophomores. They were led by co-captains, Jack Webb and Jack Davenport, the fine defensive play of Gus Schroeder, and the season's high point man, Bill Warren.

The varsity deserve much credit for their fine performances this year and with many lettermen returning, may expect fine seasons in the future.

Junior Varsity Basketball

Recently Baldwin has been among the top performers in the newly established Section 13-A. One of the reasons for recent successes is the better-than-average Jay-Vee teams who mold the future Highlander floor-men.

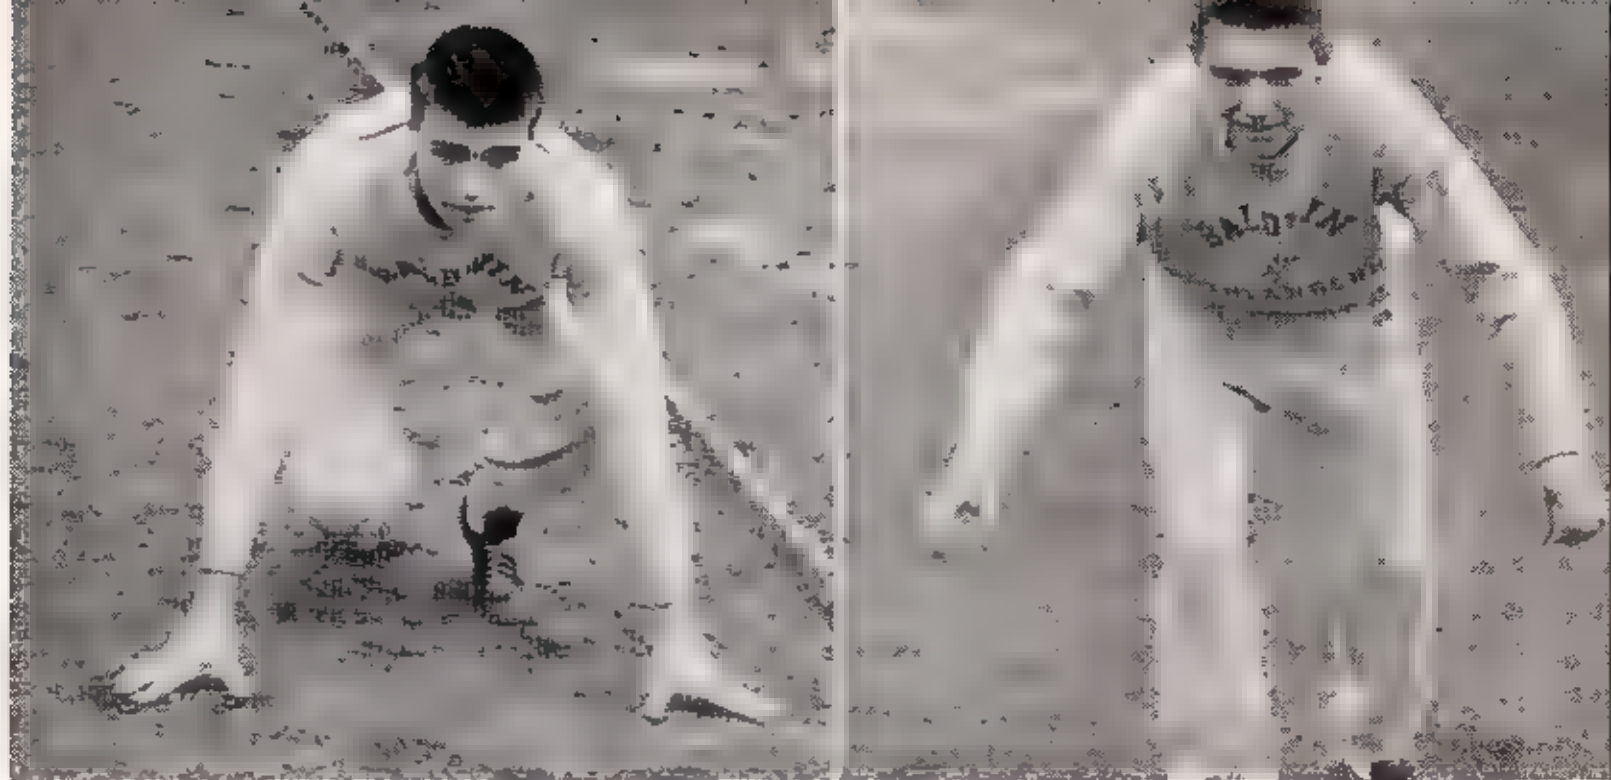

The little hoopsters enjoyed a very successful season under the alert coaching of James Gillooly. They floored a fast, scrappy team.

The Jay-Vee competition gave the boys who were younger and inexperienced a chance to play and gain additional knowledge of the game. The team used many of the same techniques and plays of the Varsity, making it easier for them to enter Varsity competition.

Our junior sharp-shooters, who sometimes played a more exciting game than the Varsity, promise to give Baldwin hope for more well-trained quints in seasons to come.

Track

Tom Edel and Don Rebmann practice

Mr. Elias Karpa, in his second year as head track coach, turned in a very creditable record against such top flight competition as Shaler, Mt. Lebanon, Dormont, and McKeesport.

Assisted this year by Mr. Anthony Mazzocco, Coach Karpa and his speedsters set out to better last year's fine record which included the first Triadic track championship in Baldwin's history.

Mr. Karpa was very fortunate in having a large number of veterans returning to the squad again this year.

Award winners in the track events were Don Rebmann, Norm Schmitt, Wilbert Duke, Paul Winslow, Bill Milroth, Dave Cox, Tom Edel, Bob Finan, seniors; Jim Burnett and Garry Neu, juniors. The field events were represented by Jack Davenport, Henry Tomko, Keith Mattern, and Larry Fehreins, seniors.

These boys formed the nucleus for the squad which worked very hard and was rewarded by a highly successful season.

Baseball

The 1956 edition of the Baldwin diamond nine proved to be as bright as it has been in the past few years. A good bit of this was due to the fact that they were now an experienced group and bolstered by the return of lettermen Jack Webb, Bill Stammer, and Biff Geiss. Biff proved to be a promising pitcher, and showed great progress in his second year on the mound against high school competition.

Coach Gillooly built the squad around these three veterans. He depended greatly upon Mike Fisher, Jack Stasik, and John Harper to help out with their fielding and hitting ability.

Right from the beginning of the season to the end, the Highlander aggregation was a hustling, high-spirited nine which gave a good account of themselves against competition from Bethel, Snowden, Bridgeville, and Peters Township.

Golf

Baldwin's golfers turned in another fine year on the links. Headed for the first time by Mr. Frank Taucher, they came up against such formidable opposition as Brentwood, Bethel, Mt. Lebanon, and Canonsburg.

Larry Brandtonies, Cheddie Mertz, Wayne Thumpston, Bob Van Wickle, and Bill Herrick constituted a veteran squad which tried to better last season's record of 8-6.

The boys participate in match play. Each golfer gets one point for each nine holes which he wins and also gets one point for having the lowest score for the eighteen holes. Since there are five players on each team, there is a possible fifteen points, plus one point given to the team with the lowest total score.

The boys turned in a creditable performance and their opposition soon learned to respect the might of the Highlanders.

Appreciation

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to those whose advice has been invaluable: Mr. McWilliams of Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company; Mr. Hoover of Kurtz Bros., who helped with printing and selection of covers; and Mr. Carter and Mr. Phillips of Valley Studios. We also appreciate the financial support extended by the business patrons and the personal patrons, friends of the student body.
